We have recently purchased a house on Bramble Road and what attracted us to this area were the lovely views of the woodlands behind us. One of the things we noticed when purchasing the house was that our outbuilding stood out with its 5m pitched roof and as this was the only large outbuilding in this side of the street we felt it was an eye-sore. We have recently addressed this by converting this to a flat roof which has now enhanced our views of the woodlands and we just discovered a lovely Elderflower tree that's always been hidden from view. We wouldn't like this application to set a future precedent for having an overbearing outbuilding in the neighbourhood as this will ruin the view of the woodlands and potentially have a negative impact on future buyers. Due to the size of the building we believe a flat roof would be better suited and make the structure less overbearing to the surrounding neighbours.
