Comments	<input type="text" value="As other objections have already covered traffic problems and dangers from pollution, I would just like to say that no case seems to have been made for this number of houses to be built on this site. There is less demand from students since the University and private developers are providing purpose-built housing and there are several similar housing developments nearby in St Albans. This area won't contribute to the regeneration of Hatfield - it's a long way from station and town centre. The owner on the application form is listed as Hertfordshire County Council and no applicants name is provided, so is it Arlington? As residents of HGV and Salisbury Village we hear constant noise from Business Park traffic and distribution centres and parts of Ellenbrook are just about quiet enough to get away from all that. There is wildlife and a herd of longhorn cattle and Park Runners and Health Walks also use it. It should be adopted as a Country Park to stop these speculative bids"/>
