Comments	<input type="text" value="This goes completely against what Welwyn GARDEN City is about. This town was built with nature in mind. It should focus on making sure people who already live here have what they need (shops, doctors, Schools, good public transports) rather than increasing a population which is already high. It will put even more stress on those issues (not enough schools, doctors, lack of decent services in hospital). In addition to this, it is likely these flats will be too expensive for people who need housing and are already in our council, so who will it benefit? It will destroy our landscape, contributing to making our beautiful town boring, ugly, overpopulated. Instead of spending millions doing that, why not try to maintain a beautiful, GREEN and spacious town people feel proud to live in?"/>
