Comments	<input type="text" value="Sorry but totally unacceptable. This is a garden city with the majority of houses, gardens, and public spaces having lovely views into the horizon. This development isn't suitable for this area at all. It'll make WGC look like an inner-city concrete jungle. When I think of what I had to endure to get permission for just tiny changes to my house in the past, to now lump 5 storey blocks of flats in the middle of town is ludicrous. And if it is allowed then WGC can do away with its conservation scheme. This is a game changing development. I have nothing against developing the land as it wasted currently, but the height has to be in keeping with other west side residential property. 3 floors max. And if this means less units for sale then that'll make the ratio of parking to units more appropriate. As the proposal stands it will lead to parking issues in the surrounding area and I don't care what the developers say about people not wanting cars - that's rubbish and we all know it!"/>
