Comment: The plans that were originally the subject of this application were withdrawn but are clearly Phase 2. Phase 1 plans include raising the parapet wall 2 foot so that the levels of the floors inside the property are all the same level in preparation for Phase 2. We object to this on the basis that we will have an enormous wall to look at from our front and side gardens which will inevitably block some light. Secondly, if the floor of the new lounge is raised 2 foot then our front garden will be overlooked by the lounge windows. Thirdly, the trees in our garden, the subject of a TPO, will be affected by the raising of the wall too. Further, we understand that the elevation plan is missing 2 windows at first floor level which will remain. We object to the porch being built as it will obscure hand carved stonework carried out by a previous owner of the property and it is of architectural significance. We have no objection to the windows on ground floor level being blocked up.
