Comments	<input type="text" value="This development is the [REDACTED] of Welwyn Garden City, the town designed to be a beautiful place to live and certainly was, when my wife and I moved here many years ago. It seems now, that to keep the ethos of the garden city we have to fight greedy construction companies, weak councils and people that don't give [REDACTED] about the ethos of the town. It would appear, left to these thoughtless people and organisations, it will descent into another urban sprawl. There will be children there. Where will they go to school, where will people park there cars and vehicles (oh yes, there will be vehicles)? The residents will not all work in London, people will have vehicles for recreation, transport and business, and also parking for visitors. We do not want any tall (ugly or otherwise) buildings that could make the area become a ghetto. I believe the limit should only be 5 storeys which this application massively exceeds."/>
