Comments	<input type="text" value="The recent developments in WGC are slowly resembling London suburbs. I moved here in 2011 & was impressed with the wide open spaces and lack of high rise buildings. The only eyesore was around the Biopark, which will become a bigger eyesore if this application is approved. There is zero consideration for further amenities in the area, namely schools, doctor surgeries or even parking. I also point you to Hatfield's development over the old airport - a soulless place full of rat runs and lack of natural sunlight. Much like the Chequersfield developments outside of Welwyn, at the bottom Howlands Profits above standards are evident throughout. The Wheat Quarter should be developed, but not for zero consideration of the current population and without any thought for further amenities."/>
