Comments	<input type="text" value="I live opposite the proposed bio-park development, I have lived at this address for 35 years. It used to be a lovely, quiet area even though we are next to a main road. Now there are high rise buildings going up on top of the really ugly recent residential development on Broadwater Road. Where are the 1000s of council housing that are desperately needed? We are supposed to be a garden city not an inner London development! What about the already overrun hospitals, doctors surgeries and schools? Not much real world thought has gone into this."/>
