| Comments | <input type="text" value="Building high density accommodation threatens the entire eco system of Welwyn Garden City. The picturesque town has been designed and built with a ratio of green landscaping to housing that sets it apart from neighbouring towns like Stevenage and Hatfield. The town frankly does not have the infrastructure to support a large influx of population. It could however easily support a large play area/swimming pool. This would much better suit the family driven town. I will have the reason why our town is being sold to the highest bidding developer."/> |
