Comments	<input type="text" value="Again, greedy developers are looking to maximise their profits without a second thought for existing residents. These buildings are too high! These plans are not in the spirit of the garden city (own council guidance says that buildings shouldn't be above 5) stories. Local services will be overwhelmed with the additional residents (have the developers ever tried to travel at morning rush hour into London (pre-pandemic)? I assume not). This is just a joke, I'm sure the spineless council will rubber stamp and wave through these proposals in any event, shame on you."/>
