Comments	<input type="text" value="Flats are far too high, too many flats squeezed into the area, the area will just turn into a shoddy estate and age very badly, this has been seen time and time again with similar developments in the UK. Not enough Parking. With that many high buildings, the area will be dark and gloomy. Not enough green space, not in keeping with the tradition, design and style of the garden city. Clearly more about money than the aesthetics of WGC. With the zoning of different types of housing i.e all social housing in one block you are going to have a concentration of unlooked after properties."/>
