Comments	<input type="text" value="I understand housing is needed in the borough, but the planning is excessive. 1 - 4 blocks is understandable but what looks like a village of high rise blocks is not fitting to welwyn garden city as a town. It is known for its green space and trees and this planning puts the town at risk of appearing as a concrete jungle. I believe this planning development is overly excessive. Smaller towns are becoming over developed and I am sure local residents will in no way be able to afford these flats - even with a 'help to buy' scheme. We are suffering the affects of a pandemic and the local borough could benefit from considering this - do not add insult to injury to the residents already in situ by providing housing fit for commuters that work in London only (yes we are aware this would be the target market for these even if its claimed otherwise!)"/>
