Comments	* The density and height of these buildings is total out of scale and proportion to Welwyn Garden City * Insufficient parking spaces puts pressure on surrounding areas * The negative impact of such a high number of residents has on the existing infrastructure * Local schools are already at their full capacity The developers state that they are proposing 1,454 units for the site. With an average of 2 people per unit (on the conservative side) $2 \times 1,454 = 2,908 / 11.2$ hectares (the size of the site) = 255 people per hectare. Comparing this to inner London that has 108 people per hectare, Barcelona 163 and Paris at 212, that is incredibly dense for a garden city.
